

Simulation uses renderer-derived calibration and exact base odometry. Depth mapping tests do not validate hardware localization or loop closure.